The news is not so late by one day as that brought to Charleston by the Isabel, but it is highly interesting. Neither our letters or papers by the Empire City speak of the rettlement of the Crescent City difficulty but as the affidavit of Purser Smith, the balm to Gen. Canedo, was probably carried to Havana by the E. C , the intelligence of its effect on the Captain-General could only come by a later steamer, which happened to Flourishing Condition of the Slave Trade-The "Lady Suf felk " Slaver Permitted to Enter the Port of Mariel-He-American Crew Discharged, and the Vessel despatched to the African Coast with the alleged Connivance of the Authori ties-Rumor of Queen Christina and Gen. Canedo being in terested in the Expedition-Description of the Vessel, and List of her late Crew, &c.

From the extraordinary activity which exists among the slave traders here with the coast of Africa, it is quite evident they must count upon the protection of the chief authority whose opinions, indeed, are well known upon the Let this be as it may, it is incontrovertible that slave-trading to the coast has never been in so flour ishing a condition in this island, as it has been within the last few months, no, not even in the palmiest days of Gen. O'Donnell. It is high time that the British government should look to this. Their treaty with Spain for the suppression of the slave trade is a mere dead letter, so far as that power is concerned, whilst the open and audacious manner in which the trade is permitted by the authorities in Cuba, is becoming every day still more glaring That this is no exaggeration, you will be able to judge from the following facts, which are of public notoriety in

That this is no exaggeration. You will be able to judge from the following facts, which are of public notoriety in this city, and to which any of the crew, or all of them lately belenging to the vesse! referred to, and who are now en their way to the States, are ready to swear to as being perfectly time. You will bear in mind that the port of Blanck, about twenty miles to the westward of Havana, where the war steamer Pizzaro was recently lost is not a pert of entry, and consequently, it is prohibited to all vessels which do not previously enter at the custom bouse at Havana - that at Mariel there is a Lieutenant Governor, and the mosal quantum of government officials—that a Spanish war steamer and corvette were at anchor in the port—that notwithstanding all this, an American ship, direct from New York was permitted to enter that port, and allowed to remain there. Why? Because she was intended for the African slave trade, and therefore was not to be molested.

The Lady Suffack was built and recently launched at Bellimere, by Adams Gray & Son, and sold to Dou Julia. Zulutta for $2.8100. She proceeded to New York where the ethoped a new craw, and salled thence for Mariel on the 3th north of the same day; that in the eviding the Spanish strawer Strens arrived at the latter port on the 15th, and on the 15th salled again for Sahia Henda, where she arrived the same day; that in the eviding the Spanish strawer Strens arrived in Havana, with a crew of seventy men and the usual equipments of a slaver. In addition to which sixteen twite pounders and one swivel gun was received on beard, believe a large quantity of small arms. The American relicions were detained prisoners on board the read of seventy such for the coast towed to sea by the steamer Sirens, which brought the rest of the crew to Havana, with the exception of Capitals and the parties of the son who had previously come to this city. The Lady Suffeix was built by Mesers, Gray & Son, extrastly for Mr. Zulucts, for the purpose of sava trading, and her lade cere wa

Rabia Honda, was a subject of such public notoricty, that it was for several days the common topic of conversation all over this city. I understand that the Captain General was made fully aware of all the circumstances regarding her, but in ro way interfered. The rumor in town is that Queen Christina, and General Canedo, are largely interested in the expedition. It is calculated that the Lady Suffolk will return here with twelve hundred negroes: This vessel being without a register, Capt. Gray having delivered his up to our Consul, Judge Sharkey, it is to all intents and purposes a piralical ship. If she has any papers at all they are false, and her captain is determined to resist all attempts to capture him.

The disgraceful conduct of these authorities, in permitting aship of such a character to leave a pert in this Island, deserves the strongest censure, but serves fully to corroborate the statement made as to their comivance. The Spanish vessels of war which she fell in with of course did not interfere, and she arrived and took her departure with the same impunity that she would have done had she been engaged upon a lawful voyage.

DESCRIPTION OF THE LADY SUPPOLE.

She is a new vessel, built at Baltimore, is 520 tons burthen has a weason's figure head—the woman has a speaking trumpet in one hand and a wreath in the other; wings on her back; vessel pained all black and she lagalarge, roomy, full rigged ship. Her name, when she left Bahis Honda, was pointed on her stern.

Feeling in Cuba with Respect to General Canado-Popula Qualities of the late Captain-General Concha Contrasted with those of his Successor.

to arise between the governments of the United States and Spain, resulting out of the extraordinary, and certainly quite unnecessary measure which the present chief authority in Cuba has recently thought proper to adopt, to the manifest injury of the commercial interests of American citizens with this island, it may, perhaps, be not out of place to give you an idea of the feeling which prevails here as regards the character of the man in whose hands the government of Spain has entrusted so important a charge as the command of this one of the few remaining valuable dependencies of the Spanish filled the entire population of this Island with profound regret. Of his great and singular ability, these people had had many and convincing proofs His high administrative talents, his wonderful clearness and facility of comprehension, which enabled him to selze at a glance the intricacles of the most complicated question, his quick and solid intelligence, his brilliant and well cultivated mind, added to a soul incorruptible but generous in the extreme, had obtained for him the love and esteem of all classes of the community, as was abundantly manifested at the moment of his departure for Spain which took place under circumstances which gave rise to such a burst of spontaneous demonstration of affection on the part of the people, as never before had been shown towards any of his predecessors. His many acts of charity, and those of his adored lady, the interest he took in the welfare of the people committed to his care, his merciful disposition as displayed towards the invaders who came to the island with "Lopez." the lives of many of whom he spared in spite of positive instructions from the supreme government to make no priconers. His absention in everything regarding himself, as testified by his having spent the whole of his yearly income of $50,600 in benefiting the island, and his leaving it so poor that a purse was subscribed by the people for his family, all this is powerfully impressed upon the minds of the people of Cuba, and leads them to form a prominent and sed contrast to the experience we, hitherto, have had of his suscessor.

General Canedo, in the opinion of those who necessartbut generous in the extreme, had obtained for him in the way of Queen Christina at a moment when it was dermined that General Conchashould be so hastily recalled. He may be a very good solder, but that he has no claims to espacity as a statesman, his abourd and dangerous policy which has brought this government to the brink of war, is clearly demonstrated. And yet, with all these defects, he is so inflated "with the dignity of his sutherity" as he terms it that at the slightest difference of opinion, he loces his temper, and so far forgets himself as to shower upon any uniuoty individual who may venture to correct the palpable incongruities of his Excellency's proceedings, the most undignified abuse, frequently recurring to such pueries threats as "Sir! beware; beware air, or I will send you to the bloro?" &c. Of his indolence it is only necessary to state that he had barely assumed the command ere he almost abolished the long established oustom of granting audiences to the people when as during the administration of General Coucha, depending upon the just decisions of the superior authority preferred bringing their ordinary matters of dispute hefore him rather than resort to law, with the risk of an expensive Rigisation; but, instead of endeavoring to compromise the people's differences, as did Concha, General Canedos refers them at once to the tribunals, and takes little or no interest in their affairs. Ard his meanness and avaries is notorious. An officer of the palace, who vouched for its trath, infirmed me, that his Excellency, the Captain General, instructs his 'magaciomes' to prepare every day breakfast for four, and dinner for six persons and that whatever remained over from dinner is to be kept for the next morning's breakfast!

General Valentine Canedo and the Cuban Slave Traders-Number of Slaves Landed- The English Cruisers-The

The slarming impetus which has been given to the raffic in slaves between the coast of Africa and this siand since the accession of General Canedo to the command and the opinions which it is well known he unhesitatiogly expresses to his intimate friends and slave dealers, his associates, that that detestable traffic is indispensable to the welfare of Cuba, has, at length aroused the indignation of the British people, who have recently according to the new-papers, been helding large and in luential meetings in various parts of the country, so that the indignation of the British people, who have recently according to the newspapers, been helding large and in fluential meetings in various parts of the country so that petitions upon petitions have been presented to the government pointing out the utter faithlessness of Spain with regard to the treatise for the suppression of the slave trade, and suggesting to the British government that that of Spain may be unde responsible for the scandilous and open manner in which the present Captain General of Cuba consilves at this nefarious trade.

The accounts from Cuba, which, it appears have reached the people of England, with regard to the representible connect of the Spanish authorities here, and their comirance with the slave traders from whom, it is netorious, they have received sums of from one to three ounces of gold per head or even more for each of the negroes introduced from the coast of Africa; and that these statements are not overdrawn, you will be able to judge from the simple fact, that in the course of fourteen years, notwithstanding that the Spanish vessels of war are continually cruising around the island, (during the last two years almost in recumunication one with another.) but one slaver has been captured on their part, and so great was the censure and ignominy east upon the unfortunate officer who brought his prize into thus port, by the authorities, that he was commelied to throw up his commission and return to Spain! Of course this served as a lesson to all other commanders of Spanish cruisers, and therefore it is not to be wendered at if, after such an example, they take very good care never to fall in with a slaver or interfere with berif they do so.

By information from the neighborhood of Trinidad, on the south cast, it learn that several example they take very good care never to fall in with a slaver or interfere with berif they do so.

You must not suppose that these enumerated are all the slaves which have been imported within the last few months into this island—by no means. There have been a great many others, the exact points of disembarkation numbers and names of the vessels which brought them I have been unable to acertain, but surely the above correct statement of those I do know all about, is sufficient to convince you of the thriving state which under General Canedo, the Lorible traffic in dayes is carried on with the island of Cuba.
